Profile

Very organized, hardworking individual with great work ethic and values learning. I was an intern in various dental clinics and also interned in different departments of a naval hospital in Whidbey Island Washington State. I was in a sports medicine program and volunteered in various sports events back when I lived in Washington State. My focus switched from healthcare to computer science. I've always loved numbers and technology and would love to be part of a company that would develop an impactful innovative program in the future.
